

The background of the cover is a painting of a volcanic island. A large volcano on the left side of the island is erupting, sending a massive plume of white and grey ash high into a clear blue sky. The eruption is accompanied by bright orange and red lava flows. In the foreground, a small wooden boat with two people inside is navigating through the blue, choppy waters of the sea. The overall scene is dramatic and evocative, suggesting a story of exploration and discovery.
